FIREMAN'S FUND EXPANDS COVERAGE IN MEDICAL FACILITIES MARKET

NOVATO, Calif. (April 2, 2008) – Today, medical care goes far beyond the traditional hospital or doctor's office. Physicians and caregivers are treating patients in a variety of facilities, from urgent care clinics to drug and rehabilitation centers. Fireman's Fund Insurance Company, responding to the growing needs of the industry, announced today its expansion of coverage in the medical facilities market.

"This is an industry that we already have a longstanding relationship with," said John Chace, vice president and executive product director of Professional Liability at Fireman's Fund. "We currently provide liability coverage for more than 200,000 health care professionals across the country, so this is a natural progression."

Fireman's Fund will now consider submissions for a wide range of facilities, including home health, medical centers, medical group homes, social service centers, ambulatory surgery centers, testing and treatment labs, urgent care facilities, dialysis centers, and more.

Along with its current coverage for healthcare professionals, this expansion by Fireman's Fund in the medical facilities market links general liability, professional liability, Excess, inland marine, and related property all in one place.

"It's one-stop shopping," said Chace. "We are bringing a fresh perspective and expanded product line-up to the market. We also have the ability to offer Excess liability protection in these collateral lines."

Hugh Burgess, chief underwriting officer, Fireman's Fund Specialty Insurance, emphasized the company's ability to tackle complex coverages, by saying, "We can take on complicated risks other companies can't touch because of our relationship with our parent company, Allianz SE, one of the world's largest insurance companies."
