David Zona Joins Fireman's Fund Insurance Company as SVP of Product Management for Commercial Insurance

NOVATO, Calif., (March 3, 2010) – Fireman's Fund Insurance Company announces that David Zona has joined the company as senior vice president of product management in commercial insurance.

In this role, Zona will be responsible for setting direction and priorities for various commercial insurance product lines and will have primary accountability for driving profitable growth.

"We are very excited to welcome David to Fireman's Fund as he brings extensive product leadership experience, gained over the course of a distinguished executive career in the financial services industry," said Lori Fouché, President of commercial insurance at Fireman's Fund.

Most recently, Zona served as vice president at Nationwide Mutual Insurance Company where he was accountable for the product management and pricing functions of its commercial lines business. Prior to joining Nationwide, Zona was vice president at AIG responsible for leading the product management function of a business unit dedicated to writing private passenger auto, commercial vehicle and power sports insurance through independent agents.

Zona holds a master's degree in business administration from the Fuqua School at Duke University, a master's degree in insurance and risk management from Georgia State University, and a bachelor's degree in business administration from the University of Florida.
